

ABSTRACT

Devices and systems for the detection of ligands comprising at least one receptor and an amplification mechanism comprising a liquid crystalline, where an amplified
5 signal is produced as a result of receptor binding to a ligand are provided. Also provided are methods for the automatic detection of ligands.